CASTRO DECIDES TO STAY WITH US

Says Honor Compels Him to Fight Against Deportation.

CASE TAKEN TO THE COURTS

Member of Senator O'Gorman's Law Firm Decides to Inquire into the Justice of the Venezuelan's Deportation—New York Senator Said to Have Interested Himself in the Case as a Matter of Principle.

New York, Jan. 4.—Cipriano Castro, the ex-president of Venezuela, made up his mind that he has been insulted by the government of the United States, and that honor compels him to stay here and fight for the privilege of paying us what he says is purely a social call. So the little general will not be a passenger for Germany today on the Hamburg-American liner Amerika, on which he had booked passage. Castro will go before the United States district court on Jan. 10 and endeavor, through George Gordon Battle, to get the court to sustain a writ of habeas corpus which Judge Holt has granted.

Mr. Battle of Senator O'Gorman's law firm of O'Gorman, Battle & Marshall had become interested in Castro's predicament, and had decided that there was no just reason for preventing the ex-president from making a social study of us.

Thursday Mr. Battle sent to Ellis Island Harold A. Content of his firm, who had a talk with General Castro. The general was delighted that someone had come forward to take an interest in his case. He told Mr. Content he was booked to sail away on the Amerika on Saturday morning, but that if an American citizen desired to petition the courts to inquire into the justice of his deportation, he would be pleased to cancel his steamship reservation.

Case in the Courts.

When Mr. Content explained the situation to Mr. Battle, the latter decided that Castro was being dealt with unjustly and that it was the duty of any American citizen who believes that political refugees should not be barred from landing here to take the fight into the courts. Mr. Battle therefore appeared before Judge Holt as the petitioner for General Castro and obtained a writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Battle acted as a citizen and Mr. Marshall appeared individually as counsel for Mr. Battle.

The writ contains the formal statement that General Castro is being detained without just reason, that he desires to land, and that neither General Castro or his counsel believes that he comes within any of the classes that are excluded under our immigration laws.

The lawyers who acted for General Castro said that the writ of habeas corpus, which is returnable before the United States district court next Friday morning, will act as a stay of all proceedings on the part of the government, and that, meanwhile, their understanding was General Castro would continue to occupy his quarters on Ellis Island. If the writ is sustained on Friday, the lawyers expect that the government will appeal at once to the supreme court. If it is nullified they will appeal.

There was a pretty strong impression among those who followed the case that Senator O'Gorman has interested himself in Castro's situation as a matter of principle. Mr. Battle said that there was no question of a fee in the case and that he was proceeding as an American citizen.

Turks Must Accept Allies' Terms.
London, Jan. 4.—Nazim Pasha, Turkish commander-in-chief and minister of war, has notified the grand vizier that Turkey is unable to resume hostilities and that the last terms of the allies must therefore be accepted. Then the plenipotentiaries meeting here today will have to accept the ultimatum of the Balkan allies, which was read to them Friday.

PICTURES THAT TALK

Edison's Latest Will Revolutionize the "Movie" Business.

New York, Jan. 4.—Thomas A. Edison sat back in his chair and chuckled in the theater of his laboratory at West Orange, N. J., as there passed upon a screen in front of him a procession of human beings and animals that sang and talked and shouted and played upon musical instruments and barked and made various other noises that moving pictures have never before furnished. It was a moment of triumph for Thomas A. Edison, the result of four years of unremitting effort to give to the world the only development about that is left in the "movies"—to reproduce sound synchronously with action.

"That's a little raw yet," laughed the wizard to the people he had invited out to witness the first demonstration publicly of his newest invention, "but you must give us a chance and we'll show you. We're green at working these things out."

There may have been something "raw" to the trained eyes of Thomas A. Edison, but to the rest of the spectators it seemed that a complete success had been achieved.

Killed Under His Own Machine.

Bowling Green, O., Jan. 4.—The body of Charles Shumacher, 35, a farmer of Center township Wood county, was found beneath his automobile, lying in a ditch, about half a mile from his home. Shumacher was returning from a visit to Toledo when his automobile skidded and turned turtle. There was a great deal of water in the ditch and it is believed Shumacher's death was caused by drowning.

Taken Under Advisement.

Batavia, O., Jan. 4.—Motions to quash indictments charging presentation of false vouchers for supplies returned against William Glancy and William H. Brown, Clermont county infirmary directors, and Leonidas Fomrin, former county engineer, were heard and taken under advisement by Judge Bambaugh.

THE Prince of Wales, heir to the throne of England, has gone in for golfing. He has become fairly proficient in it. This picture of him was taken recently as he was making a drive. After he has concluded his studies at Oxford the heir apparent will spend some time in sport of this kind and in travel. It is likely that he will come to America in 1913 for a tour of the country.

Rockefeller's Attorney Accepts
Service For Millionaire.

WILL TESTIFY JANUARY 13

According to Agreement Reached Rockefeller Will Appear on Above Date Before the Committee Probing the Reputed Money Trust—Millionaire's Health Reported to Be Precarious.

New York, Jan. 4.—The hunt for William Rockefeller in this city by deputies of the Pujo investigating committee to serve a subpoena on him in order to make him testify before the committee as to certain copper deals he had made in 1903 and 1907 came to a sudden end when word was received from the chairman of the committee in Washington that John A. Garver, counsel for the millionaire, had agreed to accept service for him. The agreement was to the effect that Mr. Rockefeller should appear before the committee on Jan. 13.

Following the receipt of the message from Washington, Charles F. Riddell, sergeant-at-arms, who has had charge of the search here and at Tarrytown, sent his special deputy, A. B. Willis, to Mr. Rockefeller's Fifth avenue home, to tell the men who were on the watch there to return to the Hotel Martinique and prepare to go to Washington.

A statement was issued from the

MIGHT BE LITTLE PREJUDICE ON CASE

SUED FOR $25,000

Juror in Alienation Case Defendant in Another Alienation Suit.

New York, Jan. 4.—George C. Balch, who now lives in New York but who owns valuable property on Grose Island, near Detroit, was sued for $25,000 by George Twomey, a wealthy Detroit business man, for the alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. Marie Twomey by giving her a valuable sealskin coat and other presents and by "wiles" and persuasiveness. Balch was served with a summons in the case when he was lunching at the Astor House, after he had been sitting on a jury in an alienation case in the supreme court.

County Treasurer Missing.

McConnellsville, Jan. 4.—County Treasurer William J. Taylor failed to appear at the courthouse and his whereabouts is unknown. A state examiner has arrived to investigate. Nothing is known as to the condition of the county's funds, as the office has not been opened.

Finds Harmon's Books O. K.

Columbus, O., Jan. 4.—Examiner A. B. Dawson of the auditor of state's office, who has been going over the accounts of the governor's office for the past three weeks, has found everything correct. An examination of this kind is always made when the head of a department is to leave office.

RIVALS FOR GIRL FIGHT

Man Who Interferes is Shot and His Assailant is Missing.

West Union, O., Jan. 4.—Sheriff Williams and deputies are searching for William Kerr, who is wanted in connection with the serious shooting of William Moore at Blue Creek, east of West Union.

Oakley Ogden and Kerr have been rivals for the hand of Miss Ruth Hazelbaker, a country girl. Ogden attended church with Miss Hazelbaker and after the service escorted her home. The couple were accompanied by Ogden's father and Moore, who is a neighbor of the Hazelbakers.

As the party passed the home of Kerr the latter rushed out and, it is alleged, started to attack Ogden. Moore started to grapple with Kerr, when, it is alleged, the latter fired four times with a 22-caliber revolver.

Fire Horror At Toledo

INFANT CREMATED

Two Brothers Fatally Hurt When Their Home is Destroyed.

Toledo, O., Jan. 4.—John Opre, 6 months, was burned to death, and his brothers, Louis, 5, and Joseph, 3, were probably fatally burned here when the Opre cottage was destroyed by fire. The mother, Mrs. Louis Opre, had gone to a neighbors' well for water and had locked the children in their home during her absence of 20 minutes.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 4.—Six persons are reported to have been drowned near Laurel. The gale caught the oyster fleet unawares and many of the ships were sunk or driven ashore. Some of the crews were rescued, but others were drowned, it is reported.

OVER A MILLION MUST BE RAISED

Alleged Dynamiters Given Chance

APPEALS COURT GRANTS WRIT

Basis of Ten Thousand Dollars For Each Year's Sentence Used by the Judge in Fixing the Amount of the Bonds—President Frank Ryan's Liberation Will Require Seventy Thousand Dollars.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Bonds aggregating $1,100,000 must be given if the 32 of the 33 labor leaders convicted of conspiracy to transport dynamite are to take advantage of the granting of a writ of supersedeas by the United States circuit court of appeals in this city.

Whether this amount can be obtained was admitted by counsel for the defendants to be a matter of doubt, but they expressed the belief that at least some of it could be procured—enough to accomplish the liberty of President Frank M. Ryan and a few others, until decision has been reached on an appeal, for the filing of which the court allowed 60 days.

The decision involves only 32 of the 33 men now in the Leavenworth penitentiary, as Herbert S. Hockin, designated among his fellow prisoners as the "informer," will not appeal.

Undue Haste Shown, Says Judge. Judges Baker and Seaman heard the arguments, and the decision was given orally by Judge Baker. He took occasion to intimate that undue haste was manifested at Indianapolis in committing the defendants to prison.

The writ was issued largely on the point raised by the defense that the iron workers were convicted of a continuing offense, a conspiracy to commit offenses continuously.

In fixing the amount of bail the court was influenced by the fact that the offenses involved are not extraditable. Judge Anderson, who presided over the trial at Indianapolis, was authorized to pass on the suitability and adequacy of any bonds offered.

District Attorney Miller of Indianapolis, who represented the government, stated that the bonds of surety companies probably would be acceptable, but that the surety must schedule in property twice the amount of the bond.

A basis of $10,000 for each year's sentence was used by the court in fixing the amount of the bonds. As Ryan was sentenced to serve seven years, his bond was fixed at $70,000, and the same ratio was preserved throughout for the other convicted men.

Will Move Carefully

Swain Not to Announce House Committee Until Next Week.

Columbus, O., Jan. 4.—Representative Charles L. Swain, Democratic caucus nominee for speaker, on arrival to attend the Democratic house caucus announced that the house committee would not be handed down by the chair until Wednesday at the earliest. Possibly they may be withheld until the following week. The speaker feels that he can afford to take ample time to complete the committee organization of the house, as he does not plan to have the members begin the serious work of lawmaking until after Governor-elect Cox has in his first message transmitted his legislative program to the legislature. The governor-elect plans to do this within 48 hours after his inauguration.

PARCELS POST IS RAPIDLY INCREASING

Deliveryman Employed Today to Relieve City Carriers of Loads to Which They Have Not Been Accustomed--A Shipment of Eggs Smashed--Rural Carriers Are Beginning to Sit Up and Take Notice.

Parcels post at the local office is on the increase, and for the first time since its inauguration. Postmaster Culhan found it necessary to employ a deliveryman to relieve the already overworked carriers of their increased burdens.

Parcels of all shapes and sizes and containing almost everything that can come under the fourth class rate, have been coming into the office, and at times it has more resembled an express office.

The amount of fourth class matter has been increased several times over, and parcels post has ceased to be a plaything and has settled down to business channels.

It may be interesting to know that the first package sent from this city—a dozen eggs packed as securely as possible, reached their destination in a very much broken condition, not an egg making the journey in safety.

However new mailing cards, red with the word "fragile" printed upon them will be attached to mail pouches containing breakable goods, and these sacks must be placed on top of the other mail bags when shipped or transferred from one point to another, and must be handled with great care.

Before the month is out the increased business at the local office is expected to double, treble and probably increase even more, so that a parcels post peddler will be absolutely necessary to handle "Uncle Sam's Express".

The rural carriers are receiving and distributing an ever increasing number of parcels, and report indications for a business which will soon crowd them for room, and larger wagons will probably be required to take care of the packages.

Ohio State Poultry Show

Recognizing the call that has come from poultry men all over the state, the Ohio State Poultry Association has arranged that the coming show will be held in Columbus Jan. 13 to 18, will be a sales show. This has never before been done in Central Ohio.

The advantage of this to the farmer or the raiser of fancy chickens is apparent. Instead of seeing the bird he would like and then depending on correspondence to get it, he will see the fowl itself and may take it away with him if he desires.

The show will be held in one of two or three large buildings now under option and at least one full floor will be devoted to a sales department. It is understood that show birds never are for sale until the show is over but most people who display chickens have others of almost exactly the same value which they can not display and which they are willing to sell. It is thus possible to compare the prize winning birds with one you may wish to purchase, which all raisers agree is much more satisfactory than any mail arrangement.

This year's show is bound to eclipse any ever held in Central Ohio. Inquiries for entry blanks already make this clear. A larger and finer array of trophies has also been arranged than ever before. No less than 26 fine silver cups will be awarded by the judges.

The show opens on Inauguration day and will be open all day and evening, so that visitors to Columbus on that day who can not come any other time will have a chance to get a peep at the finest blue blood that flows in the veins of Buckeye chickens.

FORGER IS BUSY SHERIFF ON TRAIL

Young Man Giving Name of John Ross Passes Check in Milledgeville, Apparently Signed By R. W. Marchant--Gets Money and Makes Escape, Coming Toward This City.

A forger made his appearance at Milledgeville Saturday morning, purchased a pair of trousers from Acton brothers, tendered a check apparently bearing the genuine signature of R. W. Marchant of that community, secured the trousers and change and hopping on the south-bound G. H. & D. train, made his escape before the forgery was discovered.

The check was payable to John Ross, and called for $10.35. He received the trousers and $8.35 in change. The check was drawn on the Milledgeville bank.

According to Mr. Acton the fellow entered the store, dressed in the garb of a farm laborer, which it is thought he really is, and immediately after making the purchase and tendering the bad check, hurried to the station and caught the train, and it is thought he dropped off at Cunningham, a station a short distance this side of Milledgeville.

Sheriff Nelson was immediately notified and Deputy Sheriff O. Nelson secured a rig and hurried out to the Cunningham neighborhood to locate the fellow. It was believed that he might have come to this city, and the authorities were notified to be on the lookout for him.

He is a young man about 20 or 21 years of age, medium build, a full face, wears corduroy trousers and overcoat, with long white muffer about neck, and Mr. Acton was not positive whether he wore a corduroy cap or hat, but was inclined to believe it was a cap.

The same fellow has passed other worthless checks which, when they reached the bank at Milledgeville, were pronounced forgeries or worthless, and one of the checks for $5 was passed on F. M. Palmer last week, it is alleged.

Deputy Sheriff Nelson returned from the search Saturday afternoon and had found no trace of the man at Cunningham. It is thought the fellow stepped from the train and stepped back on again, probably dropping off before the train reached

Old Man Dies In Workhouse

Bent in form, face lined with lines of long dissipation, and with nearly 70 winters resting upon his head, Thomas Davidson passed away in the Xenia workhouse Thursday evening a few hours after he had been received there from Springfield. Death was due to alcoholism, and for many years he had been going from bad to worse, having at one time been an influential citizen of Springfield, where he had many relatives.

He was sentenced to the workhouse for three weeks for intoxication. The remains of the unfortunate old man were shipped back to Springfield and buried Saturday.

BELLS OF MEXICAN RANCH.

Date from the Sixteenth Century and Highly Prized by Indians.

The ranch of Jocotlan, belonging to the Indians of the district, comprises 50,000 hectares of very rich land. The pride of the Indians is two old bells that hang in the tiny churchyard.

They date from the year 1550 and it is rumored, are cast with gold and copper and silver. They bear the date and some words in Latin. Of their history nothing is known. It seems probable that they were cast up by the sea or taken from one of the old Spanish galleons, as Jocotlan is only a day from the coast.

This immense ranch has a history. After the war of independence it was handed to the Indians of Jocotlan, who now number 200. This gift was further ratified under the government of Comonfort in 1857.

Many have desired to get these bells, but the Indians will not part with them at any price.

At the Milliner's.

An Atchison woman who has a sincere desire to be economical, says the Kansas City Journal, took a blue feather, some velvet, and a rose to a milliner, asking the milliner to furnish the shape and trim it. The woman was proud of the feather, the velvet, and the rose, as they were as good as new, but the milliner cast just one glance at them, and then the woman began to apologize. "Apologies are not necessary," said the milliner icily. "You surely don't expect me to use anything like that!" And the woman didn't. Another woman said to her milliner, bravely: "I want a hat that doesn't cost a cent over five dollars." "V-h-a-t!" screamed the milliner. "I mean," stammered the woman, "that doesn't cost over $15." "Oh, well, that's better," said the milliner.

THEORY OF HOT BREAD UPSET.

The cook books so freely distributed by the United States Department of Agriculture have done a world of good in showing the ambitious housekeeper how to make the most of raw material. But perhaps one of the most grateful statements under the many covers of the many books is contained in the volume on the art of breadmaking. In a word, we are informed that hot rolls are not the awful things they have been painted.

"The fact that the bread is hot has little to do with the matter," says the cook book.

Of course these statements presuppose a healthy condition. They go on to add that the difference between white and other breads is so small as to be a negligible quantity, thereby upsetting the accepted theory that graham and whole wheat breads are more nutritious than the plain white variety.

THE NEW RULE POPULAR.

Seventeen cities and towns in Kansas have adopted commission government, Neodesha being the latest recruit. Kansas now leads in the number of cities which have abolished the old ward lines, even surpassing Texas, where the idea originated. Sioux City, Iowa, and Eau Claire, Wisconsin, are recent converts and there are now about sixty cities in all, representing sixteen States. Thus far there has been no disposition to go back to the old irresponsible system of ward politics.

WHAT IS FITTING.

No man can be said to be fitted for life who is not trained to enjoy life, to enjoy the best and noblest things it has to offer. He cannot be so trained if he is educated solely on the theory that he is to be a slave of his job all his days. He may be efficient, but he is not a human being. He may be an excellent workman, may make millions of dollars, but he is not a man. He is a machine. So the question is, are we to turn out men or machines?

Enter Protest Against Road

The Old Grasshopper railroad is coming in for another share of abuse because it fails to run trains only semi-occasionally to the two terminals—Sedalia on the Eastern division, and King Man on the Western division.

This time the citizens of Sedalia are up in arms because the "two streaks of rust" as they term the old road, is not used sometimes for two or three days.

Shippers of live stock and grain are indignant because they are forced to feed and water the stock until the train arrives and takes the shipment on the way to market.

Boats Towed by Autos.

The first successful towing of canal boats by automobile was accomplished one recent Sunday on the Lehigh canal. Owing to the liability of the tow-line to snap in the effort to start, George B. Plummer, a Camden automobile expert, equipped a seven-ton motor truck of 45 horsepower with spiral springs. Six barges with 800 tons of cargo were taken from Allentown to Bethlehem in an hour. Present lock capacity and speed limitations considered, it is estimated that automobiles compared with mules will handle double the number of boats in half the time.—Philadelphia Record.

First Honeymoon in Air.

Even the honeymoon in the air is not a new idea. M. Flammarion, the distinguished French astronomer and aeronaut, took his bride for a honeymoon trip in a balloon on August 28, 1874. Mme. Flammarion relates that though she had never been in a balloon before, she felt no trepidation when she took her seat in the car along with her husband and his scientific instruments, at the gas works of La Villette. They were accompanied by M. Flammarion's brother and the aeronaut, M. Jules Godard.

"Hicksites" vs. "Friends."

Hicksites are a numerous body of rationalistic Quakers in America, founded by Elias Hicks (1748-1830), who in 1827 seceded from the Society of Friends and created a schism in that body by his promulgation of Unitarian doctrines. About one-half of the "Friends" in America adopted his views. The Hicksites deny the miraculous conception, the divinity and the atonement of Christ, as well as the inspiration and authenticity of the Scriptures.

IN SOCIETY

Fraught with marked interest in Washington society will be the following announcement in the Troy Democrat of January 2:

A very complete surprise was given the friends of Miss Margaret Geiger after the Assembly dance on Tuesday night, when she entertained a number of girls at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Geiger, by announcing her engagement to Alexander Ballard, of Washington C. H.

It has been suspected for some time by friends that little Dan Cupid was playing an important part in the lives of these two very popular society folk.

Miss Geiger is one of Troy's most charming younger women having conducted a kindergarten in this city for the past two years. Her father, Charles A. Geiger, is the president of the Troy Wagon Works. Mr. Ballard is one of the rising young business men of his native city. The nuptials will be a society event of early spring.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ballard, of this city, and interested in the wholesale firm of the Ballard-Ford Hardware Co., and the retail firm of the Dice-Mark Hardware Co. He is a Denison university man and has a host of friends outside of Washington to whom the engagement will also be of interest.

Miss Geiger was a college friend of Miss Lois Jones at Lake Erie Seminary and it was during a visit to Miss Jones last summer that she and Mr. Ballard first met, their early acquaintance ripening into the announcement just made.

Mr. Ray Wilson and Miss Marie Pavey, of Sabina, were married Thursday evening in Wilmington by Rev. Conger, of the M. E. church.

Both young people belong to well known families of Fayette and Clinton Co., the bridegroom the son of Mr. Horace Wilson, of near Bloomingburg, and the bride the attractive daughter of Mr. G. A. Pavey, of the Pavey Hardware Co., of Sabina.

Mr. Wilson is one of the progressive young farmers of the county and owns a beautiful country home and farm on the Columbus pike, three miles from town, to which he will take his bride after a few days' visit at the home of his parents.

Mrs. Wilson has frequently visited here and shares with her husband in the heartsome congratulations of many friends.

Mrs. Byron Gifford, of Chicago, was the guest of honor at a charming little "Bridge" confined to three tables of her special friends, given by Mrs. D. L. Thompson Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Gifford was radiantly beautiful in black messaline, with bodice of white French lace, and black velvet hat, with ostrich plume.

Mrs. Thompson wore a white lingerie gown, becoming to her fair type.

Mrs. Alice Moorman assisted in the hospitalities.

The guest of honor was presented with a pearl handled cheese knife as the afternoon's favor and at the game's close a delicious collation was served.

Mrs. Lewis Syester, of Hagarstown, Md., and Miss Louise Hershey, who returns to Niles today, were among the guests.

Ralph Parlette At Grace Church

Mr. Ralph Parlette, lecturer and humorist, appeared before a large audience at Grace church Friday night, bringing to it a remarkable message, so sugar-coated with humor that it provided an evening of entertainment as well as profit.

The lecturer's discourse was in the nature of an effective sermon on the subject, "The University of Hard Knocks."

The aim of the speaker was to show that there are many things in life which ought to be avoided and the man who profits by his experience is infinitely the gainer.

The dominant thought that life is a university of hard knocks, many of them needful and many needless, was unfolded to a logical conclusion, the speaker never allowing his levity to interfere with his deep, underlying purpose.

The lecture was based upon Mr. Parlette's own experience as a struggling editor with a "mortgage on meal ticket, faith in the future, both getting punched every day," and his varied career up to later years of success.

The lecture was a unique and powerful appeal of its kind and made the audience think while it laughed.

A FARMER WHO FARMS.

There are three classes of men having to do with the soil—landowners, agriculturists and farmers. Those of the first class may hold large areas of land without having any knowledge of, or interest in, its cultivation. The distinction between the two other classes is less pronounced, and is gradually disappearing, though it may still be said that an agriculturist is one whose knowledge of soil manipulation is largely theoretical, while the farmer is one who lives on the soil, coaxing or compelling it to yield its harvests.

All of this by way of inviting attention to the modest career of a great American farmer. He is David Rankin, of Tarkio, Mo., and he cultivates an area of 25,640 acres. If you were to call him a landowner he would resent it. He insists that he does not "own lands," but farms and farms all he owns. Nor would it please him to be called an agriculturist; he is just a plain farmer doing business as an active partner of the soil and doing it so successfully that his property is now worth an average of $100 an acre. He has money invested—a few millions—in other enterprises, but he never forgets that it all came from the farm, and therefore never allows those outside investments to divert him from his farming operations, which he began more than half a century ago with possessions consisting solely of a good wife and five dollars in cash.

It is pleasant to contemplate a career like David Rankin's. It emphasizes the importance of sticking to one's chosen work and doing things earnestly. We do not imagine that Mr. Rankin considers his material wealth as by any means his and Mrs. Rankin's dearest possession. Both can probably point to certain fields of that magnificent farm and recollect that it was there that the early struggle was hardest, the soil most unresponsive and the rewards of toil the smallest. And that recollection must bear with it a sense of honorable conquest, of justified fair in the soil and of usefulness to the common good sweeter by far than the mere possession of the ease and fortune which their labors have won.

"Retain Supt. Gossard" Petitions Being Circulated Quite Liberally Signed

Cemetery Trustees Are Considering the Question of Employing Superintendent and Member Green Favors Letting Job to Lowest Bidder.

Friends of Mr. George Gossard, superintendent of the Washington cemetery, are circulating petitions which are being liberally signed, asking that Mr. Gossard be retained in the position he now occupies and which he has filled for some years past with such efficiency.

At a meeting of the Cemetery trustees recently the question of selecting the superintendent for another year was brought up and discussed. Mr. Gossard's time, however, does not expire until April 1st.

Member Green wished early action on the question, it is stated, before he leaves for a short trip to the west. He favored employing a superintendent at competitive bidding, but Member Barnett held that the beauty and welfare of the cemetery and the accommodation of those called to visit the cemetery depended largely upon the personality of the man chosen, and that much depended upon retaining an experienced man as well as a man of the right disposition. Adjournment of two meetings was taken without definite action.

Mr. Gossard's many friends are anxious to see him retained in the position where he has shown such ability in keeping the Washington cemetery the pride of the city, and are of the opinion that he will again be chosen.

COLLEGE GROWING SERIOUS.

The report comes from one of our great universities that animal spirits are on the decline among the undergraduates. There is a greater tone of seriousness on the campus these days, they say, and in certain localities unmistakable tendencies toward an interest in books. Eccentricity and riotous excesses have given place to gravity and a desire to get on in the world.

While we should all be sorry to see some of the picturesque student customs disappear, we can easily spare the old-time putting cows in the chapel, painting numerals on university property, harassing instructors and man-handling fellow students. It takes a strong willpower to laugh at some of the typical college pranks of the older day.

ONE HEART THAT BEATS AS TEN.

The average rate of the human heart is about seventy beats per minute. According to a recent article in the Scientific American, F. Buchanan has succeeded, by the use of an ingenious electrical meter, in counting the beats of a mouse's heart. They amount to nearly 700 per minute, and cannot be recorded by any ordinary method of pulse-taking. The mouse's heart thus pumps away at the rate of over eleven pushes per second. In comparison to the elephant's heart, at the other extreme, with one beat in two seconds, it is a veritable race-horse.

HANGING VS. ELECTROCUTION.

The English way is the only way to treat homicides. Hang them quick, rich or poor, as soon as proved guilty. A people who have not power to tear their homicides out of their society and instantly destroy them don't amount to much. The sentiment toward murderers is one appalling fault of this day and country. Fifty per cent. of murders are too brutal and ignorant to understand that death by electrocution is really death. Hanging is just as merciful, though more feared than electricity.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS.

The success of the man who knows is naturally more marked in the community which appreciates knowledge.

The enlightened community demands of its professional men, its mechanics and, its laborers even, a thoroughness and an understanding which is neither demanded nor appreciated in communities with lower intellectual standards.

What a comfort and what a distinct satisfaction it is to consult with the professional man, lawyer or doctor, who knows what he is talking about, who can impart his knowledge to his hearers in plain understandable terms.

The prosperity of the men who skim along over the surface with barely enough knowledge of their announced vocation in life, and with a very low store of natural endowments for that matter, excepting nerve, is beginning to wane perceptibly all over the land. In new countries where the inhabitants are occupied to the limit with the battle against nature, the shoddy goods sell and the make believe men thrive.

This country has passed through the refining crucible and the crusade against the fakers is on to a finish.

The arrival of the time and it seems to be here at last, is thrice welcome when a physician and surgeon must have other qualifications in order to succeed in the practice beside an office, an old skeleton, some musty books between the lids of which he never looks, a diploma from a very inferior medical college and a conveyance to carry him to his victims post haste.

Welcome too is the time when public opinion as well as the written laws of society announce that there are other qualifications required to make a good lawyer than an ability to, in thundering tones, mercilessly butcher the English language before twelve of his client's peers.

It takes more than a saw and a hatchet nowadays to make a carpenter, more than dirty face and hands to make a mechanic.

Through all the whole long list the change is complete revolutionary and glorious. In talking to or laboring for an intelligent people, whether the product offered for the public service come from the brain or brawn, the recommendation must be simple, understandable and real worth.

Laws have been enacted forbidding the faker and the cheat to ply his trade of deception, but these laws are not nearly so necessary now because public knowledge which demanded their enactment has grown and spread and the market for the make believe is fast fading away.

What a comfort it is to talk with a man who knows what he is talking about and how much more opportunity there is now for indulging in that comfort than there once was is apparent to anyone who will look about, see the marvelous advance in the public demand and then open memory's book and compare present conditions with a dozen years ago.

Practical Training Essential For Agricultural Students

By Dr. L. H. BAILEY, Director of New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University

THE colleges and schools of agriculture are now confronted with very serious problems touching the qualifications of those who enter the institutions. Many of these students are coming from the cities and towns WITHOUT ANY PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE OF FARM LIFE OR ANY REAL KNOWLEDGE OF THE RURAL BACKGROUND.

ONE CANNOT SECURE THIS KNOWLEDGE OR EXPERIENCE BY READING ABOUT IT OR DREAMING OF IT. HE MUST ACTUALLY HAVE BEEN A PART OF A COUNTRY COMMUNITY IN ORDER TO UNDERSTAND THE SITUATION. IT IS IMPOSSIBLE, HOWEVER, TO IMPOSE A GENERAL ENTRANCE QUALIFICATION IN FARM PRACTICE, BECAUSE NO WAY IS PROVIDED WHEREBY THIS EXPERIENCE CAN BE GAINED IF ONE IS NOT BROUGHT UP ON A FARM.

A certain number of town boys can find employment on farms, but the opportunities in this direction are not sufficient to meet the necessity or the demand. The farmers do not want city boys.

American School Boys Are "Softened"

By Dr. GEORGE KIRSCHENSTEIN, German Educator

AMERICAN PUPILS, PARTICULARLY BOYS, ARE BEING SUBJECTED TO HARMFUL "SOFTENING" PROCESSES.

The cause lies partly in the employment of methods which make the pupils' tasks too easy and partly in the lack of men teachers.

Boys in the four lower grades may well be left in the hands of women teachers. The upper grades should unquestionably be UNDER MEN who understand the nature of the boy better than women do.

The boy should in many cases be much more FIRMLY AND VIGOROUSLY HANDLED than is possible for a woman. It is doubtless the overfilling of the schools with women teachers that is EFFEMINIZING the process of character building and weakening the pupils' respects for authority.

Poetry For Today

THE WAGER.

El Shamar was a builder
Of fame long years ago;
Ar Hamel was a poet
Of whom we little know.

But once, a legend has it,
Shamar stood and smiled
Before a palace golden
Which he had reared and styled.

"Ar Hamel, I'm a builder,
And you a singer—say,
You write a song; I'll wager
Your song first fades away!"

Ar Hamel wrote a love song;
A fragile thing it seemed
Beside the palace golden
That in the sunshine gleamed.

But when the lofty palace
Had crumbled into dust,
And on the wind was dancing,
The plaything of each gust;

When Shamar long had vanished,
Forgotten was his name,
When Hamel, happy hearted,
Was known no more to fame;

Still in that land the love song
Was sung by lovers true;
The love song was immortal,
Its theme forever new!

Spiritual Fellowship.

At one time the apostle Paul seems to make much of his having actually seen Jesus, but again he declares that even though he did know Christ in that way he knows him no longer, and he is constrained thereafter to know no man "after the flesh." However precious, for the moment, the physical relationships, they cannot last. The spiritual fellowship is incomparably more worth while; which is what Christ died to teach mankind.

Austria to Build Airships.

The first Austrian airship construction company has just been formed with a capital of 300,000 kronen, and it is understood that the war office is immediately placing an order for a dirigible. The constitution of the company is largely due to the fact that the efforts of the government to obtain a dirigible from Germany during the recent crisis failed.

Origin of Pasquinades.

Pasquinades is a term frequently applied to anonymous publications of a satiric or libellous nature, sometimes written and sometimes printed. They derive their name from one Pasquino, a witty tailor, who dwelt at Rome at the close of the fifteenth century, and delighted his patrons with his sarcastic humor.

CHINESE SMUGGLER IS VERY CLEVER

In No Part of the World Are They So Daring as in the Canton Delta

KITTENS FILLED WITH OPIUM

Many Ways in Which the Seductive Drug is Brought in Contraband—A Surprised Night Patrol—Even Out-cast Lepers Used.

In all countries the evasion of fiscal obligations is considered no wrong, and "passing the customs" is generally regarded as a tax upon personal rights. So much is this the case that those who render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's generally do so to escape a worse evil, and seldom from any moral conviction as to what is right and what is wrong. In this one respect, at least, East and West may be said to have met, for in no country in the world has the art of smuggling reached a higher standard than in China and in no part of China have smugglers become so daring or so ingenious as in the famous Canton delta, whose innumerable and intricate waterways spread their welcome arms to shield wrongdoers and embarrass pursuit.

John Chinaman is a born gambler, and as often as not stakes his acuteness against lawful authority merely for the love of play.

The heavy duty on opium and the comparative ease with which it can be secreted naturally place it in the front rank of desirable contraband, and many a ball of the seductive drug has found its way into Canton from that acknowledged base and happy hunting ground of criminals, the British free port of Hong Kong, without his imperial majesty Kuang Hsu being a cent the richer.

Many are the methods adopted and the precautions taken by those nimble evaders of the law. Floats and skiffs, the outcome of the most fertile imagination and the most careful study, are the most frequent means used, and at a given signal from the shore the whole consignment is dropped overboard from one of the palatial river steamers running between Canton and Hong Kong, to be eventually picked up at a convenient time by receivers on land.

On one occasion a handsome cat, with kittens, was noticed on board one of these steamers, and after a time it was remarked that the kittens did not appear to grow any larger. An inquisitive custom house officer in Canton found upon examination that they were all dummies, filled with opium, and it was recalled that this lucrative imposition had been going on for weeks.

Again, the Canton customs night patrol going the rounds of the crowded harbor took shelter one night from a violent summer squall under the huge paddle sponsons of a well known river steamer. "Is that you?" inquired a voice from above in Chinese. "Yes," replied the customs officer, with quick perception. "Then catch," answered the mysterious interlocutor, passing down half a dozen balls of opium, the share of which meant much prize money for the lucky gig's crew. The smuggler was, of course, waiting for a confederate whom the customs officer unwittingly forestalled.

On another occasion the inspector general of customs, Sir Robert Hart himself, was visiting Canton, and in the evening at dinner was obliged to apologize to his hostess. "You must excuse my costume," he said, "for the customs have seized my boxes." It was indeed true, as one of his Chinese servants, never suspecting that the inspector general's personal effects would be disturbed, turned a syndicate with some enterprising friends, and half-filled one of the trunks in his charge with contraband.

Salt, that daily necessity of life, being a government monopoly in China, is subject to official regulations which add to its cost and lessen its quality. The duty indirectly paid on this article may be styled the income-tax of China, since all must use this everywhere indispensable commodity. Salt, therefore, naturally comes within the scope of the contrabandist, and smuggled salt, by reason of its cheapness, commands a ready sale. It differs from opium, however, inasmuch as its bulk renders concealment difficult and landing it at its destination risky. The majority of salt smugglers are, therefore, the Chinese crews of the carrying vessels, working in conjunction with accomplices ashore. It is as often as not concealed among the bunker coal, and kept there until a favorable opportunity for landing presents itself.

At one of the river ports some years back the crime of "salt running" assumed such startling dimensions that extraordinary precautions were put a stop to it were introduced, which proved efficacious for a time. Later, however, it was noticed that sampans, or small boats, manned by those unhappy outcasts, lepers, were becoming more numerous, and it was soon discovered that they were engaged to land the salt, as it was perhaps not unreasonable to assume that customs officers, however zealous, would at least respect the inviolability of these fatal craft, and it was not until the aid of the local magistrate was invoked that these adjunctive smugglers were forbidden the port.

"MUTT AND JEFF."

The long looked for treat, the much talked of play, the much discussed production, "Mutt and Jeff," will receive its initial presentation in Washington at the Empire theater on Friday January 10. A play has been built under Mr. Hill's direction in which they will be the principal characters, to a well defined and exuberantly funny plot. "Mutt and Jeff" are a pair of race track "habitants," who at the close of the Saratoga racing season find themselves, as they term it, "flattened," irretrievably broke, without a nickel in their "jeans," not even the price of a "soup sandwich". Among the guests at the club house are the daughter of the President of a South American republic and her chaperone, from whom "Mutt and Jeff" learn of an immensely rich estate of a deceased revolutionary general, who had been banished from the country for sedition. There being no claimants for the estate, it very likely would soon be confiscated by the government. An article indispensable in the manufacture of chewing gum has been discovered on the property, which probably accounts for the determination of "Mutt and Jeff" to impersonate the heirs of the estate and claim the property. They annex a pair of jobs as waiters on the S. S. Insurgent and work their way to the new field of labor. The development of this plot naturally presages much merriment, which will not be found lacking.

Connors of Dayton will assume the duties of secretary to the warden immediately after the resignation of the present secretary is effective, Jan. 15.

FOR THE CONTRIBUTION BOX.

A Convenient Arrangement for Giving Early and Often.

A custom among attendants of the Greek Church at Trebizond explains the use of certain tokens which have been presented to the American Numismatic Society in this city.

According to the Journal of the society sometimes several collections are made during the service in these churches. Even should there be but one, the visitor may desire to make a special contribution at the shrine or picture of some of the saints whose impression he desires to secure, or he may wish to purchase a candle for use in some of the ceremonials in public or private devotions.

On entering the church, therefore, he exchanges a certain sum of money with the deacon at the gate for an equivalent amount of these tokens. He is thus able to respond to the calls for the various offerings during the service or to deposit his gift at the shrine of the saint by using one or more of these tokens as he may be disposed, yet without any heavy demand on his purse. These church tokens are sometimes of brass and sometimes of paper.

Results Becoming Manifest.

A year ago the rate of increase among tuberculosis organizations and institutions was one every other day, only one-half as fast as now. Less than a year ago there were 40 consumptives for every hospital bed provided. To-day the number has been reduced to 30. Nearly 20,000 beds are now provided in institutions for treatment of consumption, an increase of over 5,500. The number of special tuberculosis dispensaries in the United States has more than doubled, the number of anti-tuberculosis associations has increased 68 per cent., and the number of hospitals and sanatoria 43 per cent.

New York, Jan. 4.—Harry Schlacht, superintendent of the East Side Protective association and a prospective witness before the aldermanic committee, was found on the floor of his office. He said that he had been hit over the head with a blackjack or some such weapon and that certain books which he had in his office, and which he intended to use as evidence when he was before the aldermanic committee to tell of police grafting from East Side peddlers, had been stolen.

RIOTOUS DEMONSTRATION GIVES AN UGLY LOOK TO STRIKE SITUATION

EMPLOYERS ADMIT STRIKE A SERIOUS ONE

Threaten to Use Strikebreakers If Settlement Is Delayed.

New York, Jan. 4.—Riotous demonstrations marked the progress of the garment workers' strike. In one outbreak clubs were drawn and a number of strikers arrested. Since the strike began this riotous spirit has been apparently increasing, while every day the leading men in the United Garment Workers of America and firms involved in the strike have been talking peace with the representatives of the Clothing Manufacturers' association and citizens identified with the peace movement in the rooms of the chamber of commerce.

Thomas A. Rickert, general president of the United Garment Workers of America, came on here from Chicago and will remain here for some time to supervise matters. He said: "The strike is the largest one in the men's and boys' clothing trade that has ever taken place in the history of the country, and everything points to its successful termination for the strikers. I believe they will win."

A meeting of the executive committee of the Clothing Trades association was held at the Hotel Brevoort, after which President Benjamin admitted that the strike was a serious one. He said that if there was not a settlement soon, the manufacturers would employ strikebreakers.

They've Begun It In Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Four automobile bandits smashed in a jeweler's window here and escaped with a tray of diamonds after a running revolver fight with police. Their escape was aided by a fashionably dressed woman, who apparently fainted in the arms of a uniformed policeman as he started to draw his revolver. As soon as the thieves were out of sight the woman recovered herself and disappeared.

office of Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Pujo committee, to the following effect:

"By direction of the chairman of the committee Mr. Untermyer has accepted, on behalf of the committee, the agreement of Mr. John A. Garver, counsel for William Rockefeller, to accept service of subpoena for the attendance of Mr. Rockefeller before the committee at Washington on Jan. 13. Following this agreement the sergeant-at-arms of the house has been instructed to discontinue his efforts to effect service on Mr. Rockefeller."

"Mr. Garver has at the same time advised Mr. Untermyer that Mr. Rockefeller's condition of health is very precarious, and that it will be impossible for him to appear as a witness at Washington or even to submit to examination at his home."

"Mr. Rockefeller has been informed that, having submitted to the jurisdiction of the committee, he must now present his excuses to the committee in due form for such action as it may deem proper. If it is established to the satisfaction of the committee that it will be impossible to secure the testimony of Mr. Rockefeller without imperiling his life, the committee would of course not feel justified in taking any such extreme action. It may, however, conclude to secure an independent opinion."

Somewhere In Big Storm Fighters Are Tossed

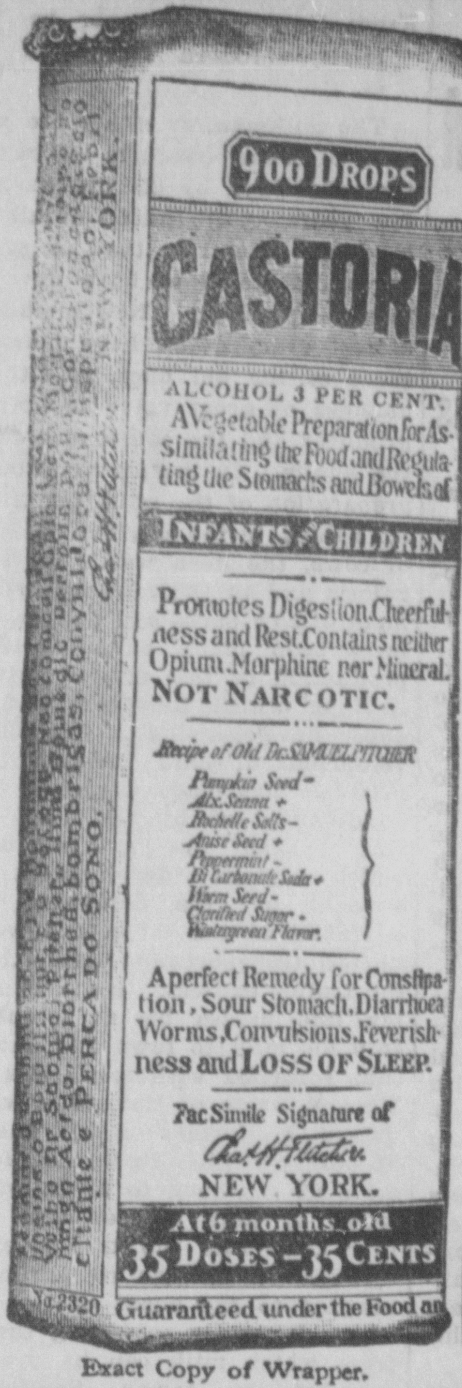

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 4.—With the wind blowing 63 miles an hour in the city, 70 at Cape Henry and 80 at Hatteras, this section was at the mercy of the worst storm experienced here in 35 years. The battleships Minnesota, Georgia, Utah, Ohio, Virginia, Nebraska and Idaho, to escape the fury of the hurricane on the outside, managed to make their way into Hampton Roads. Anxiety is felt for the safety of four torpedo boats which, when last heard from, were en route to Norfolk.

BOTTLE OF WHISKY GETS POSTMASTER'S GOAT.

Boston, Jan. 4.—The receipt of a quart bottle filled with whisky by parcel post from Boston to Lynn placed Postmaster Craig of that city in a peculiar position. He can not send the bottle to the dead letter office. Sending whisky through the mails is tabooed by the government. The department regulations also prohibit the delivery of the bottle to the person to whom it was sent. Still other regulations forbid either the destruction of mailed matter or the keeping of liquors at a postoffice.

Brooded Over His Defeat At Polls

WEDEMAYER A SUICIDE

Congressman, Brooding Over Recent Defeat, Jumps Into Sea.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Representative William W. Wedemeyer of the Second Michigan district jumped overboard from the Panama liner Panama, committing suicide while temporarily insane. The news was received by the war department via wireless.

Representative Wedemeyer landed at Panama late in December, a member of one of the congressional inspection parties. His colleagues noticed that he apparently was suffering from hallucinations and shortly after landing he became violent, attempting to kill himself.

Brooding over his defeat in the recent election was believed to be responsible for his mental condition and he rambled incoherently over his troubles, attributing them to the Taft-Roosevelt imbroglio.

More Hearst Letters Read.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The senate committee investigating campaign expenditures held a meeting and read into the record another batch of Standard Oil correspondence, furnished to the committee by William R. Hearst. In the form of photographic reproductions. Following the reading of the letters the committee held an executive session and decided to go into an investigation of the charges made by ex-Senator J. B. Foraker as to how Mr. Hearst obtained the letters.

LYNCHING THREATS HEARD

Bum Vaudeville Performance Arouses the Ire of Natives.

Huntington, L. I., Jan. 4.—Threats to lynch a company of New York vaudeville performers figured in the worst riot this town had ever seen, when revolvers were discharged and the principal streets were filled with an unruly mob after a poor exhibition at the Bijou theater had resulted in a public apology for the production by the manager, who rang down the curtain in the middle of the scheduled program. Chief of Police Edward Howmann with his reserves guarded the trembling performers to a train which took them to New York city, while a mob yelled at their heels, and a few missiles were hurled in the air. No damage was done.

Schulteis pleaded guilty to manslaughter in connection with the killing of John Hardesty and refused a suspended sentence on condition that he would tell all the facts.

Columbus, O., Jan. 4.—A new code of procedure, made necessary by the changes effected in the judiciary by the new constitution, was adopted by the circuit judges for the new courts of appeals. # A NEW ARTIST IN PANDEMONIUM

He is the Drummer Evolved by the Moving Picture Show
Houses

AN EXPERT IN MAKING NOISES

He Plays on Three Instruments at Once—Wonders He Can Perform with a Leather Pad and Two Slap-sticks—How He Tells a War Story.

In the moving picture shows the orchestra is apt to consist of not more than two persons, a piano player and a drummer, but by the aid of various auxiliary contrivances it is able to produce a great variety of effects. For the reason that the piano player has all the time full occupation for both hands on the piano keys these auxiliary contrivances are all operated by the one other member of the orchestra, the drummer.

There are three instruments that he can play on at once, a snare drum with his hands and a bass drum and cymbals with his feet, but it is with the other contrivances that he produces the realism. He has a string of sleigh bells hanging handy to jingle when in a moving picture scene a sleigh crosses the stage, a bar of steel to strike resonantly at the proper moment for the sound of a bell, a whistle to blow. He may even supplement these contrivances by the use of his own voice on occasion.

He may use the drums for imitative purposes. He imitates the "pucker pucker" of a motorboat on the snare drum, and with fidelity he reproduces the sound of steam exhausts.

You see in the picture showing on the stage a railroad train rolling into a station. Passengers disembark and get aboard. The train starts and you see the first white puff, the first exhaust shoot up from the engine's stack as the engineer gives her steam, and not only do you see it but you hear it too, and with a sound so true that for a moment you fancy it is the real exhaust you hear. Then as the train gathers headway and its movement quickens the noise of the exhaust comes quicker and quicker and nearer together, till they blend finally in the steady roar, diminishing and growing fainter and fainter as the train draws away, finally to be lost in a fading blur.

A wonder, all this, in naturalistic sound production. If you happen to sit near the drummer your wonder grows as you see him, with his eyes on the picture, producing the sound of those steam exhausts with drumsticks on a drum. But wait till you see and hear what he can do with a leather pad and two slapsticks.

A war story, this next series, showing first a wooded country with a stretch of clearing in front. At the near edge of the clearing a soldier comes into view, facing away from you across the clearing toward the woods and keeping moving toward them. Before you know it another soldier appears a little further along, and then you see three or four or half a dozen more of them scattered along over the clearing—a skirmish line advancing; and then a puff of smoke from the woods and you hear the crack! crack! crack! crack! crack! and then our fellows—we call 'em our fellows because they started in from in front from our side of the stage—our fellows answer and you hear a dozen quick, scattering shots.

Then a squad of cavalry comes in on the gallop to back our fellows up, and they do mix things up in that clearing in great shape with rifles and pistols banging away all the time, crack, crack, crack, and crackle, crackle, crackle. It wasn't a battle, there weren't nearly enough engaged for that, but it was what the newspapers refer to when in war time they print a despatch from such and such a place which starts off by saying: "There was a lively skirmish near this place yesterday between —" and so on.

We had seen that skirmish from start to finish and we'd been near enough to it so that we could hear every shot that was fired, and if your eye had wandered for a moment from the moving picture on the stage to the spot where the rifle shots actually came from you would have seen the drummer of the orchestra, with his eyes fixed on the picture, spitting, spitting, spitting, spitting, with two slapsticks on a pad that looked like a leather chair cushion. A simple device this, but by its aid what would otherwise have been only a picture, a dumb show, had been wrought up into a scene that was thrilling.

ELECTRIC DAIRYING.

From Cow to Consumer by Electricity—Modern Milkman's Motto.

The milkman, or rather the dairyman, of to-day conducts his business those followed by his predecessor a few years ago. Indeed of all New England industries that of supplying milk seems to have developed most surprisingly. New methods in almost every detail have taken the place of the old ones, resulting in changes of great value to both the producer and the consumer—that is the public. In the examination and preparation of the milk, particularly for babies, in the care for the health of cows, the keen watch for tuberculosis and in the sanitary arrangement of cow barns and dairies, there have been many advances in the production of this almost universal food in which consumer and producer have benefited. In the development of milk machinery the producer has many advantages never dreamed of by his predecessor. But perhaps the greatest benefit which modern development has brought to the dairyman is to be found in the latest achievement in the transportation field, that is the trolley express. By it, if a trolley line passes his farm, he can ship his milk to town and have the cans returned with much less trouble and waste of time than was required in former days. There is no bother of hitching up for the long drive in the dark to town, with its waste of time and expense. Further than this the trolley express through its service so particularly adapted to the needs of the dairyman, is rapidly extending the zone from which milk can be profitably supplied to towns. Sanitary arrangements throughout the whole dairy, labor saving machinery of which he never dreamed, the elimination from milk of germs of which he never heard; all these features would probably cause the old-time dairyman to open his eyes. When to these improvements, however, is added the trolley express to whisk the full cans into town and bring back the empty ones, he would be forced to admit indeed, that things have changed. From electric milking machines to electric transportation for his product the modern dairyman can now call to his aid in almost any detail the wonderful agent which Ben Franklin discovered.

Keeping the Barn Clean.

The average American barn, a building which is traditionally in most parts of the country painted a bright red—if painted at all—is more often than not an eyesore to the landscape. Instead of making this structure stand out in bold relief against the trees or green fields which surround it, the color used on the farm barn may well be of such a hue as to cause the structure to blend in with the surroundings.

It goes without saying that the barn should be water and wind proof, for during the cold winter when chilling winds sweep across the country's broad fields a slight draught will often rob a farmer of his best horse or cow, and it behooves him, therefore, to keep a watchful eye on every nook and cranny through which this dangerous draught might enter.

The necessity of keeping a perfect record on the farm has been pointed out by scientific husbandmen, weighing the product from each cow and recording the yield of the animal from day to day. The dairy barn should be a model of cleanliness and it is considered wise to wear out brooms and scrubbing brushes than it is to have sick and unhealthy cattle, and tainted milk which will soon ruin the dairyman's reputation.

"Do you know what should be done with liquor?" asked the total abstinence Judge to the hard-looking man at the bar.

"No, Judge, I can't exactly explain it here," replied the babo; "but if you've got a dime and will come outside with me, I think I can show you!"—Yarkers Statesman.

CHILDREN OF THE CIRCUS

Travel with Their Parents — How They Are Educated.

"It is nothing unusual for the large circuses to carry thirty and forty children ranging all the way from mere babies to boys and girls 15 and 16 years of age," said Jerome S. Rogers of Chicago, a former circus man. "The majority are travelling with their parents, both the father and mother doing daily duties in the ring, and while often they are trained to follow in the steps of their elders they are seldom allowed to perform in public.

"It is a common belief among circus men that the performer whose training is not started until after the age of 6 will seldom make a distinctive record. I often saw groups of boys, some of whom could not have been over 4 or 5 years old, practicing rudimentary somersaults and handspings, while their parents looked on with a gratified smile. These were the families of the circus aristocracy, who treasure the records of their ancestors with the pride of a son in his father's sword and who see no more inspiring calling for their own children than that of the great white canvas.

"Not that their education is neglected in other respects; several of the families often hire an instructor—perhaps one of the performers who has the time and ability for such work—to coach their children in the standard studies. One circus, indeed has now established a travelling school for the youngsters. If they are to be acrobats they are to be educated acrobats."

Has Woman a Sense of Humor?

Not a wife-Eve but plays up from morning to night to Adam's idea of his own importance. She must assume always that he is absolute monarch of the little domestic kingdom, no matter how firmly entrenched she be as the power behind the throne, writes Inez Hayes Gilmore in Success Magazine. She must assume always that he is the hub of his business world, that it would fly to pieces were he to absent himself from it for a week—assume it even though she knows that it is his capable underclerk who keeps the wheels moving.

And last, "Women have no sense of humor," says—does the man live who has not said it? It is the oldest bromidiom extant. Yet man has always before him the irrefutable evidence that, for countless generations, woman has lived with him. How could she have survived that ordeal minus the sense of humor?

Value of "Stooping."

Always be civil. Try to treat rich and poor alike. Is not the poor man's 20 shillings as good as the rich man's pound? The working man's wife, with her basket on her arm, says Sir Thomas Lipton in the Strand, is entitled to as much respect as the lady who comes in her carriage. When Benjamin Franklin was ambassador at the French court, speaking to a young man, he said: "The last time I saw poor father he received me in his study. As I was leaving he showed me a short way out of the house through a narrow passage crossed by a beam overhead. Suddenly he cried: 'Stoop! Stoop!' I did not understand what he meant until I felt my head bump against the beam. He was a man who never failed to give good advice. 'You are going,' he said, 'and have got to go through the world. Stoop as you go through it, and you will miss many hard thumps.' I have never failed to be impressed by this lesson of humility."

OLD HOTEL CLERK KNOWS 'EM

Temperament of Guests Comes Out When They Register Their Names.

"Do I believe that a man's name as he writes it is an indication of his character?" repeated a hotel clerk who has been behind the counter in several cities. "I don't know about character, but I do know that the best of them unmask their real temperament when they write their names on a hotel register—and I hold that there's a difference between character and temperament.

"A man may be bilious and yet have a good character. A man may be a crank and yet hold a job in a bank. I knew a preacher who had a case of dyspepsia that would have made an angel jump over a ten rail fence, but he was all right on the religious goose. I'm talking about temperament that shows itself when a man grabs a pen and writes his name on the register and where he hails from.

"When a man spreads a John Hancock brand of chirography on the book of arrivals I know what sort of room he wants. I know he has to have a bed in which he can wallow like a buffalo.

"When a guest writes his name as he would sign it in a lady's album I put him in the finicky class. I know he wants to thin glass from which to drink his water.

"The arrival who uncovers himself the quickest is the man who tries to write differently from anybody else and has an acquired autograph. The man who develops the trait of getting something under false pretences begins by trying to assume an autograph. I always know that this fellow will have a rumput with the water or the bellhop or the liquid dispenser.

"There is one chap that reaches my heart—the man who writes 'and wife' for the first time after his own name. He can't disguise the fact by his manner, to say nothing of his chirography, that he has just started on the first lap of his honeymoon. He doesn't try to counterfeited his natural penmanship, but he writes 'and wife' as if he thought we were on, wondering how we knew it.

"All things being equal, the newly married arrival is the most agreeable guest in the house. A fellow with a new wife wears velvet shoes so that his kick is never felt. I think if anybody writes a perfectly natural autograph it is the man who has just been married. Then if ever a man tries to be just what he is."

Filial Sorrow.

The late William M. Everts used to tell a good story about himself. While he was in the United States Senate his wife and children were in their mountain home in Vermont. One of the latter was looking out of the window thinking of her father and wishing that she could see him, when a donkey in a contiguous pasture came up to the fence, poked his head over the top rail, and brayed most dolefully. The child wiped a few lonesome tears from her eyes and then called to the donkey: "Never mind! Don't be lonesome, for papa will be home Saturday evening."—Success.

Advice to the Middle-Aged.

After you are 40, you may, if you are not a fool, choose your own rules, your own medicine and your own food. But you will find that the more you are in the open air and the more you are with other people the better you will succeed. You will also find that there is nothing gained by brooding over failure.—Edward Everett Hale

To Father Time.

Backward, turn backward, O Time,
in thy flight!
Give us an autoless day and a night,
Give us a "yellow" sans headlines to scan,
A rustless skirt, and a hustless man,
A babe teddy-bearless, a microbeless kiss,
A fisty fight fakeless, a straight-frontless miss,
A giggleless schoolgirl, and—better than that!—
A summer-clad college man wearing a hat!
I know, Father Time, that I'm asking too much,
But turn to a day ere a dinner was lunch.
Swing back to an age perovideless for hair—
An aeon ere "rats" made their rendezvous there—
An old-fashioned breakfast without Shredded Hay,
A season when farmers went wineless a day,
A burgh moving-pictureless — ah what a treat!
A gumless-girl town and a trolleyless street;
I'm asking too much, but I pray, Daddy Time,
For days when a song had both substance and rhyme!

—The Bohemian.

SO SAD.

"But the poet says life is nothing without love."
"Well, I haven't found much in life anyhow."

Were the prices the same, the cost of furnishing an American citizen's table to-day is probably twice as much as it was fifty years ago.

AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

In the absence of Rev. Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian church, the Rev. Hugh Hudson, of Gordonsville, Va., filled the pulpit last Sunday very acceptably, and pleased the congregation both morning and evening with his practical discourses. He was prevailed upon to preach again tomorrow and consented to do so. Those who will hear Rev. Hudson tomorrow are sure to be inspired and helped.

WORTH LEARNING.

Watch for the Blind.

A Swiss watchmaker of Neuchatel, who recently invented a watch for the blind, has been flooded with orders. The watch has no glass, and its face is of enamel. The hands are invisible and are placed inside the case. The figures work automatically, appearing a little above the enamel face as the hands pass underneath. A blind person can with a touch of his fingers tell the time in an instant. The watch costs from $4 upward.

New Service Board Clerk

Friday afternoon the clerkship of the Service Department of the city was transferred by Service Director Mark, from Carey E. Baughn to present deputy probate judge, Ray Maddox.

Mr. Baughn had, so far as known, aided the position very creditably, and it is said the present change was due entirely to political reasons, as in the case of the transfer of the clerkship of the Safety department, from Mr. Baughn to James J. Flynn. James J. Flynn was also a candidate for clerk of the Service department.

Sunday Services At the Y. M. C. A.

In place of the vesper service at the Young Men's Christian Association on Sunday afternoons, a half hour, from 4 to 4:30, will be given over to the study and discussion of live problems that concern men, and young men. Rev. Orndorf leads the discussion tomorrow, and the subject is "Friends". All our men are cordially invited to attend this discussion.

Humane Officer Gets Increase

Members of the Fayette County Humane Society appeared before the County Commissioners Saturday morning, and upon their application for the full allowance from the county for the Humane society, a resolution was adopted in which the salary of Humane Officer Gooderl was increased from $15 now paid by the county, to $25 per month.

Under the law the last named amount must be paid the Humane society by the county, and where the society operates in the county seat, as the local society, the amount payable by the city is not less than $20. When the officer was first appointed, $10 was paid by the city and $15 by the county, owing to lack of funds Application will be made to the city council Monday night for the amount allowed by law, and Officer Gooderl will then devote his entire time to the work.

D. A. R.

The D. A. R. will hold their meeting Monday, January 6, at the home of Miss Ida Hays on S. North St. A Kensington will furnish the afternoon's entertainment.

As it is time for election of officers members are urged to attend.

Before the Rain.

Clouds are dusky gray and still, Nature's waiting for the rain; Birds have ceased their song until They can feel the sun again.

Trees are waiting, patient too, Hushed and silent as they stand, Till the breeze comes sailing through Freshening all the weary land.

Water's rippling like a song Where the willows bend above, Gently coaxing it along With a tender mother-love.

The long grasses tilt and sway To the music's mystic flow In a dance of elfish play Mirrored in the stream below.

Sentinel poplars, straight and tall, Upward turn their shining leaves And the tree-tops scrape and call In a tune that oddly grieves.

There's a brooding tenderness That's so sweet it starts a pain Yearning through and through your best, Then—here comes the driving rain.

Grace G. Bostwick, in Everybody's.

Charity.

The broken hearts, the burning tears, The shuffling gait, the shifting eyes, Distressing pains and wild the fears—

Oh, heartrending the piercing cries Of suffering poor remind all ye Of charity, sweet charity.

Now note the grief-bent, ailing forms Of pilgrims weak with hopes adrift— Their hair streaked gray, the lost in storms—

To Heaven they their faces lift! Ye who are strong and good will see Sweet charity, sweet charity.

No battles fought bring greater fame, No higher glory win brave souls Than earning, ah, enduring name Upon the noble-hearted scrolls.

Than aid the poor and lift the free To charity, sweet charity.

THE PORTER'S DILEMMA.

A Very Simple Process If He Followed the Advice.

The porter was greatly perplexed. At High Polsover a lady with a long nettie entered the train. She was a middle-aged, tall, angular, tailor-made woman, and she looked sternly at the commercial traveler in the seat opposite through her lorgnette. Before seating herself she opened the carriage window. At Hilsdon Cross another woman came in.

She had fluffy hair and an appealing look in her blue eyes. She sat down and glanced at the open window and shivered pathetically; then she looked at the commercial traveler.

"I shall be frozen to death!" cried the fluffy-haired lady.

"If this window is closed, I shall suffocate!" cried the other woman.

The porter opened his mouth. He started to raise the window. Then he retreated. Dazed, he turned appealingly to the commercial traveler.

Both the women also turned to the commercial traveler. That gentleman rose, passed by the ladies, opened the door to the platform and went out, followed by the porter.

"And what, sir," said the porter, "would you say as 'ow I should do, sir?"

"It's quite simple," said the commercial traveler. Leave the window as it is, open, till one lady is frozen to death; then close it and suffocate the other. I'm going forward for the rest of the trip.—London Opinion.
